As such the group has formed Mesopotamian Cultural Association (MCA); which is a registered charity under the charity registration number 1068310 and is subject to the laws and regulation of the United Kingdom.

MCA in accordance with its mandate in the form of the charity's legally governing document its constitution and charitable activities as disclosed annually in the Annual Returns to the Charity Commission for England and Wales; has undertaken numerous charitable activities in the United Kingdom and the Republic of Iraq.

Basrah Stock Exchange (BSE)

BSE was established in 2012 as the 'Finance' division of the group, the rapid expansion of active economic ties and trade relations has urged the need for the existence of more than one stock market in the Republic of Iraq, particularly because Basra has long been considered as the financial capital or hub of the country throughout history.

The advent of another regional stock market in Iraq will further embolden the increase in competition witnessed in Iraq, which makes for a healthy market economy. Healthy competition ensures that incremental positive refinement takes place, in the way shares are handled, better regulated stock market procedures and other financial tools presented to investors and shareholders.

Historically Basra has been regarded as the financial capital of Iraq due to economic, geographic and historic factors. Basra can be distinguished from other governorates in Iraq as it is strategic to the Middle East and the International community at large; Basra can claim the following advantages:

- Location - Main sea port
- Natural Resources - Vast Oil & Gas reserves
- Water reserves – Basra is located where the two main Rivers (the River Tigris & the River Euphrates running throughout the length of the Republic of Iraq) meet at al Shat Al Arab River.
- Human Capital – Basra presents professionals of the highest calibre with internationally recognised qualifications and experience, Basra has long been known as a place of learning, a largely untapped pool of labour work force
